

BOAT RENTAL BUSINESSES

Boat rental businesses are also known as liveries. Liveries can be found at many state and county parks, along major rivers, water trails, and at some marinas, boat dealerships, and outdoor outfitters. Liveries provide introductory experiences for interested people to try boating without committing to the purchase and maintenance of boats and related equipment. Liveries also provide opportunities for experienced boaters to experiment with different types of boating or get on the water without transporting their own equipment to a new location. Some liveries provide unique boating opportunities like whitewater rafting. Because liveries provide a wide variety of services to a broad diversity of people, liveries must pay careful attention to safety.

Livery operations are regulated by the Pennsylvania Fish and Boat Commission. Livery operators are required to comply with regulations relating to inspections, record keeping, safety orientations, required equipment, and accident reporting. Specific requirements can be found in the Commission's regulations at: 58 Pa. Code Chapter 117. Boat Rental Businesses \(pacodeandbulletin.gov\).

Safety orientations provided by liveries must comply with the Commission's guidelines, including:

- a review of the laws and regulations applicable to the type of boat being rented
- local conditions and known boating hazards on the waters on which the boat will be used
- proper handling characteristics of the rented boat
- the use of safety equipment such as life jackets, fire extinguishers and visual distress signals (if applicable)

The following procedures are to be followed by livery operators when renting a boat to any person for operation on Pennsylvania waters. These instructions may take up to thirty minutes to complete. Instruction may be provided in group settings. All persons providing instruction for the boat rental business must have a permanent boating safety education certificate issued by the Commission. Livery operators may request safety orientation materials by contacting the PFBC Bureau of Boating at RA-FBBOATRENTAL@pa.gov or 717-705-7851.
