

2010 Deputy Waterways Conservation Officers of the Year

Deputy Waterways Conservation Officers (DWCOs), working with Waterways Conservation Officers (WCOs), perform many specialized law enforcement duties in protecting, conserving and enhancing our water resources.

Deputies work long hours, often on weekends and holidays. Even though they receive a small allowance for some expenses, they are otherwise not compensated.

Any officer may nominate a deputy for this recognition. Regional committees of employees in the Commission's Bureau of Law Enforcement and Bureau of Fisheries review the nominations and choose the winners. DWCOs receive plaques for these awards. The awards carry the distinction of the recipients knowing that their peers selected them.

Becoming a DWCO

Deputies engage in work successfully from a variety of backgrounds and choose to be DWCOs for many reasons. All DWCOs share a common commitment to saving lives on our waterways and to protecting, conserving and enhancing Pennsylvania's aquatic resources and environment. Many DWCOs use their training and experience to move on to other law enforcement occupations.

Anyone interested in learning more about DWCO positions should contact the nearest Commission regional headquarters. These headquarters are listed on the Commission's website, www.fishandboat.com, and in the Pennsylvania Fishing Summary.
